We grow as trees grow . . .

Some nurtured by friendship . . .

Some by knowledge . . .

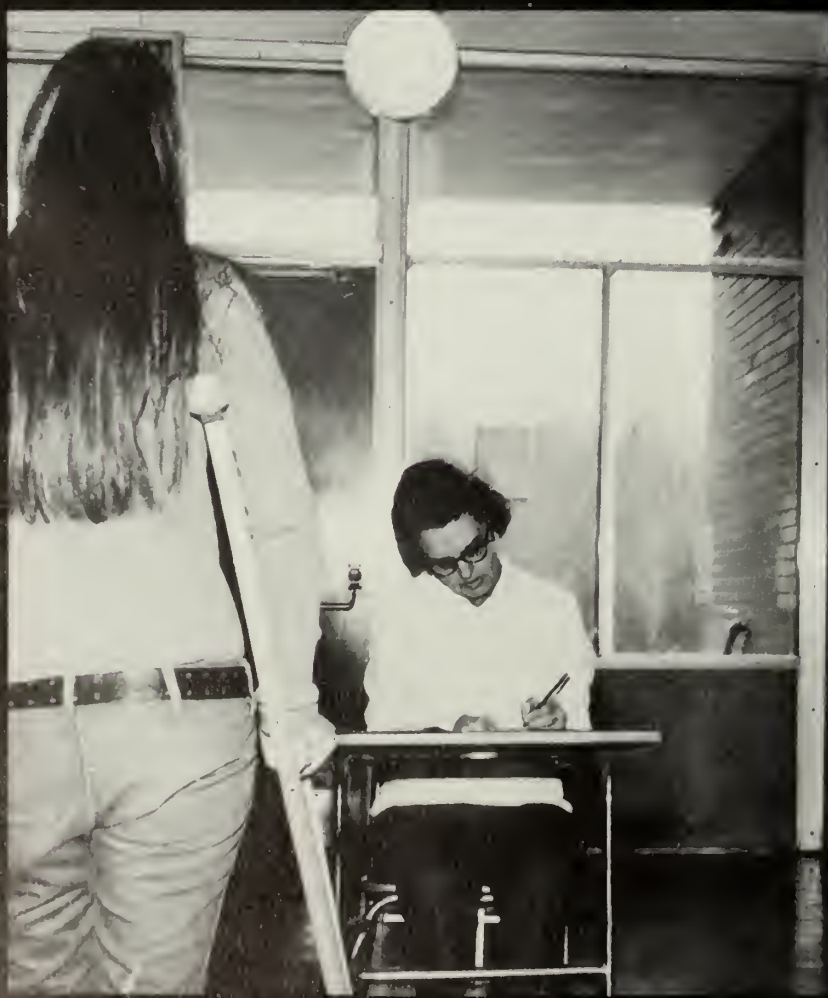

Some by sports . . .

We grow inwardly and outwardly.
Our minds grow to form the roots,
Which keep us steady . . .
in the midst of change.

AN ANALOGY

Did you ever make a piece of pottery?
 I've found a somewhat interesting analogy I'll share with you.
 When you begin, your clay is in a shapeless mound.
 Then you knead it, and slap it 'till its hard and strong.
 You get to know how it feels and what it will do.
 Next you shape it on your wheel.
 You push, pull, press, and mold the clay
 And work your hardest until its centered.
 Then you make it curved and beautiful and
 Give it character and it is a whole.
 That's what you did for me my friend,
 You made me strong and feeling beautiful.
 However, most of us are curious and we
 Often twist the clay and pull it once too much.
 What is left is wet, shapeless, sad clay.
 Another mass of shapeless matter.
 That's what you did to me my friend—
 You pushed me once too much.
 Now time is long,
 And I'm waiting for someone to come to me
 To knead me and get to know me
 Making me beautiful all over again!

IN THE NAME OF GOD

They've gone to kill the moslems
 They've gone to kill the jews
 They've gone to kill the infidels
 If not the cross, then death they choose
 Have you taken the cross my son?
 You are a knight you will fight for Christ
 You will fight away your youth
 The Pope has given his blessing
 Its' now in our hands
 The Dukes and Kings will lead us on
 To Constantinople and the Holy Lands.
 Now we must kill the moslems
 Now we must kill the jews
 Kill all the infidels
 If not the cross, then death they choose.
 And the pretty white ladies
 Wait in pretty ivory towers
 With the pretty little priests
 Also in the towers . . .
 For it's said that the men

Will not return for years
 God has sent his will
 Through the Pope's words
 And the poets have stopped their writing
 The minstrel sings no songs
 The painter has lost his brush
 And judgement has begun.
 After raping women
 And pillaging homes
 And carrying off the treasures
 The men will return . . .
 To their pretty white ladies
 In their pretty ivory towers
 And the priest will say the prayers
 For all the sins committed
 And the Pope will forgive
 And God has forgiven
 For all that has been done.

Karen Themistocles

SPIDER'S SONG

I love to watch the spider weave,
He is so silent as he stands,
Not breaking once the unknown spell,
Of joyous magic in the strands!
The tiny threads of silver glow,
With curious light on this dark eve.
And as the nymph who loves the moon,
On and on the spider weaves.
The spider's web is almost done,
But still not weary does she seem.
I slip quite slowly into sleep,
While the spider's spinning shapes my dreams.
I waken to the sound of force,
A sound like a giant's howl of pain,
And, looking skyward, I find gray,
Flecked with sparkles of the rain.

The trees dance sadly to the hum
Of violent gusts of moving air . . .
A sliver thread flies to my sight—
The spider's web I find nowhere.
Through the day the heavens cry,
But the clouds slip out as the dusk moves in.
And looking out I rejoice to see
The spider start to spin again.
I love to watch the spider weave,
Moving lightly, it makes no sound.
But if the web to music turned,
The world would hear a glorious sound!

THOMAS

You sit on your stool,
Your silence supreme.
As the chilling madness
Shatters your dream.
And you ponder quite sweetly,
The quiet of your soul,
As the gopher of death
Digs an innocent hole.
And you pray to your spirit,
And cry to your son,
For the death of his fortunes,
Haunts the weight of his gun.
Bullets may pierce,
Yet indifference may kill.
But you care not for Thomas,
One less name in your will.

Peter Gordon

Sunshine
In my being
Singing slightly off key
At ease with myself
So glad to be me.
No hardships to bear
And carefree at Heart
High
Spirits
Take flight
The Earthly Body
Departs.

Anne Cushing

. . . one out there in no where just standing not resting a moment (but then who cares?) do you?
standing doing nothing much is what you say offering only a little shade I say it's beautiful. a tree

Seth Levenson

In order to acknowledge my existence, I must first find what my mind thinks of even existing at all. If I find that my mind does not find existence desirable, then why should I acknowledge that I am existing and be displeased?

However, if existence does appeal to my mind, shouldn't I try to exist to my utmost?

But then, how does one exist to one's utmost? By a smile and caring? By finding joy through others? If one does not enjoy doing such things, why should he try to exist to his utmost? Why exist at all?

MY MIRROR, YOUR MIRROR

You are called "cute."
To attain this title you have made a
Slight fool of yourself in front of the girls,
Until there is little distinction between the real you and
the
Raving idiot in the halls
And you—you giggle for the guys
Barely stopping before your supply of air runs out.
And all this just to frantically generate some fond memories.

Steve Greeley

FRIENDS

I once wondered, "What is a friend?"
Thanks to you I've found out.
A friend is someone you need.
Someone to confide in, someone to trust.
A friend is like a good day.
Always willing to help,
And doing it with a smile,
But a smile that seems to brighten up my day.
Having a friend is a simple leaf,
Loaded with unforgettable memories.
Having a friend is a simple love,
A love so innocent, yet so real.
Doug Frey

L'ete est venu trop tot.
Il a vole le printemps
Nos yeux, mi-ouverts, mi-clos,
Nous, perdus, comme le printemps.
Nous avons perdu le printemps.
Toi, moi, et tous les autres
Nous etions encore endormis
A l'abri de nouvelle echeance.
En pensant que nous avions fini
Sans une nouvelle renaissance.
Nous avons perdu le printemps.
Toi, moi, et tous les autres
Le printemps doit se rendre a l'ete
Comme l'innocence a la maturite.
Car l'innocence est ene chose trop fragile
Pour lutter contre la realite.
Nous avons perdu l'innocence
Toi, moi, et tous les autres

THE BRIDGE OF LIFE

The bridge of life swings gently in the breeze.
The crossing looks fair but is not accomplished with ease.
It is the bridge to true love and mature understanding,
It leads to the things in us that are the most worth having.
This intriguing quest is glamorous
because if you're wise it can mean your happiness.
Joanna Haagens

The puzzle pieces are slowly
locking together
Everything seems to fit now
They will not come apart
Except from some outside force
Inside everything is stable
The picture grows each day
Nothing matters but the search for the right piece
And the satisfaction that
Comes when it is found
To fit it together right is the main objective
I hope it doesn't fall apart
before I am through.
Sue Miller

His life is a struggle of song
For living's a difficult art
For in the end, the total sound
Depends on how he played each part.
S. Greeley

You come to me asking of life,
of coping with sorrows;
of changing with vicissitudes.
I can neither be preacher
nor arbiter
For I know not what life is.
You ask of rules
I say only
Distinguish well, I shall not say choose,
Ethics from Etiquette
One is a code of living
The other a code of existence.
Now you ask me
Me, I wish to see through cat's eyes
Instead of glasses;
To hold my dreams in amber
Instead of snowflakes,
And to seek more than I shall ever find.

Congratulations to the Class of 1973

We know the sigh of relief that comes at the end of your final exam. Long years of study behind you, and a big wide world ahead.

But even at that it isn't the final test—or the end of your learning. The biggest tests still face you in the choice and fulfillment of your life's work. Many plan for college, some must reckon with the armed forces. Others will seek positions in industry, trade, business. We, at Dennison, congratulate you on your past accomplishments; if your future plans call for steady employment or summer work, we'll be glad to discuss your problems with you.

Our Employment Department will welcome the chance to outline opportunities existing in our offices, factory, and warehouse.

The yearbook—it's the creation and the celebration of friendships. Potentially, the yearbook staff can metamorphose its experience into a book that is surprising, original, beautiful. The people at O'Toole's know how to liberate that potential. So you needn't go south or west to find someone to entrust your yearbook to. We've been keeping our trust in the Northeast for over three quarters of a century.

When I get older, losing my hair
Many years from now,
Will you still be sending
A valentine, birthday greetings
Bottles of wine?
If I've been out 'til quarter to three,
Will you lock the door?
Will you still need me?
Will you still feed me?
When I'm sixty four.

Thanks . . .

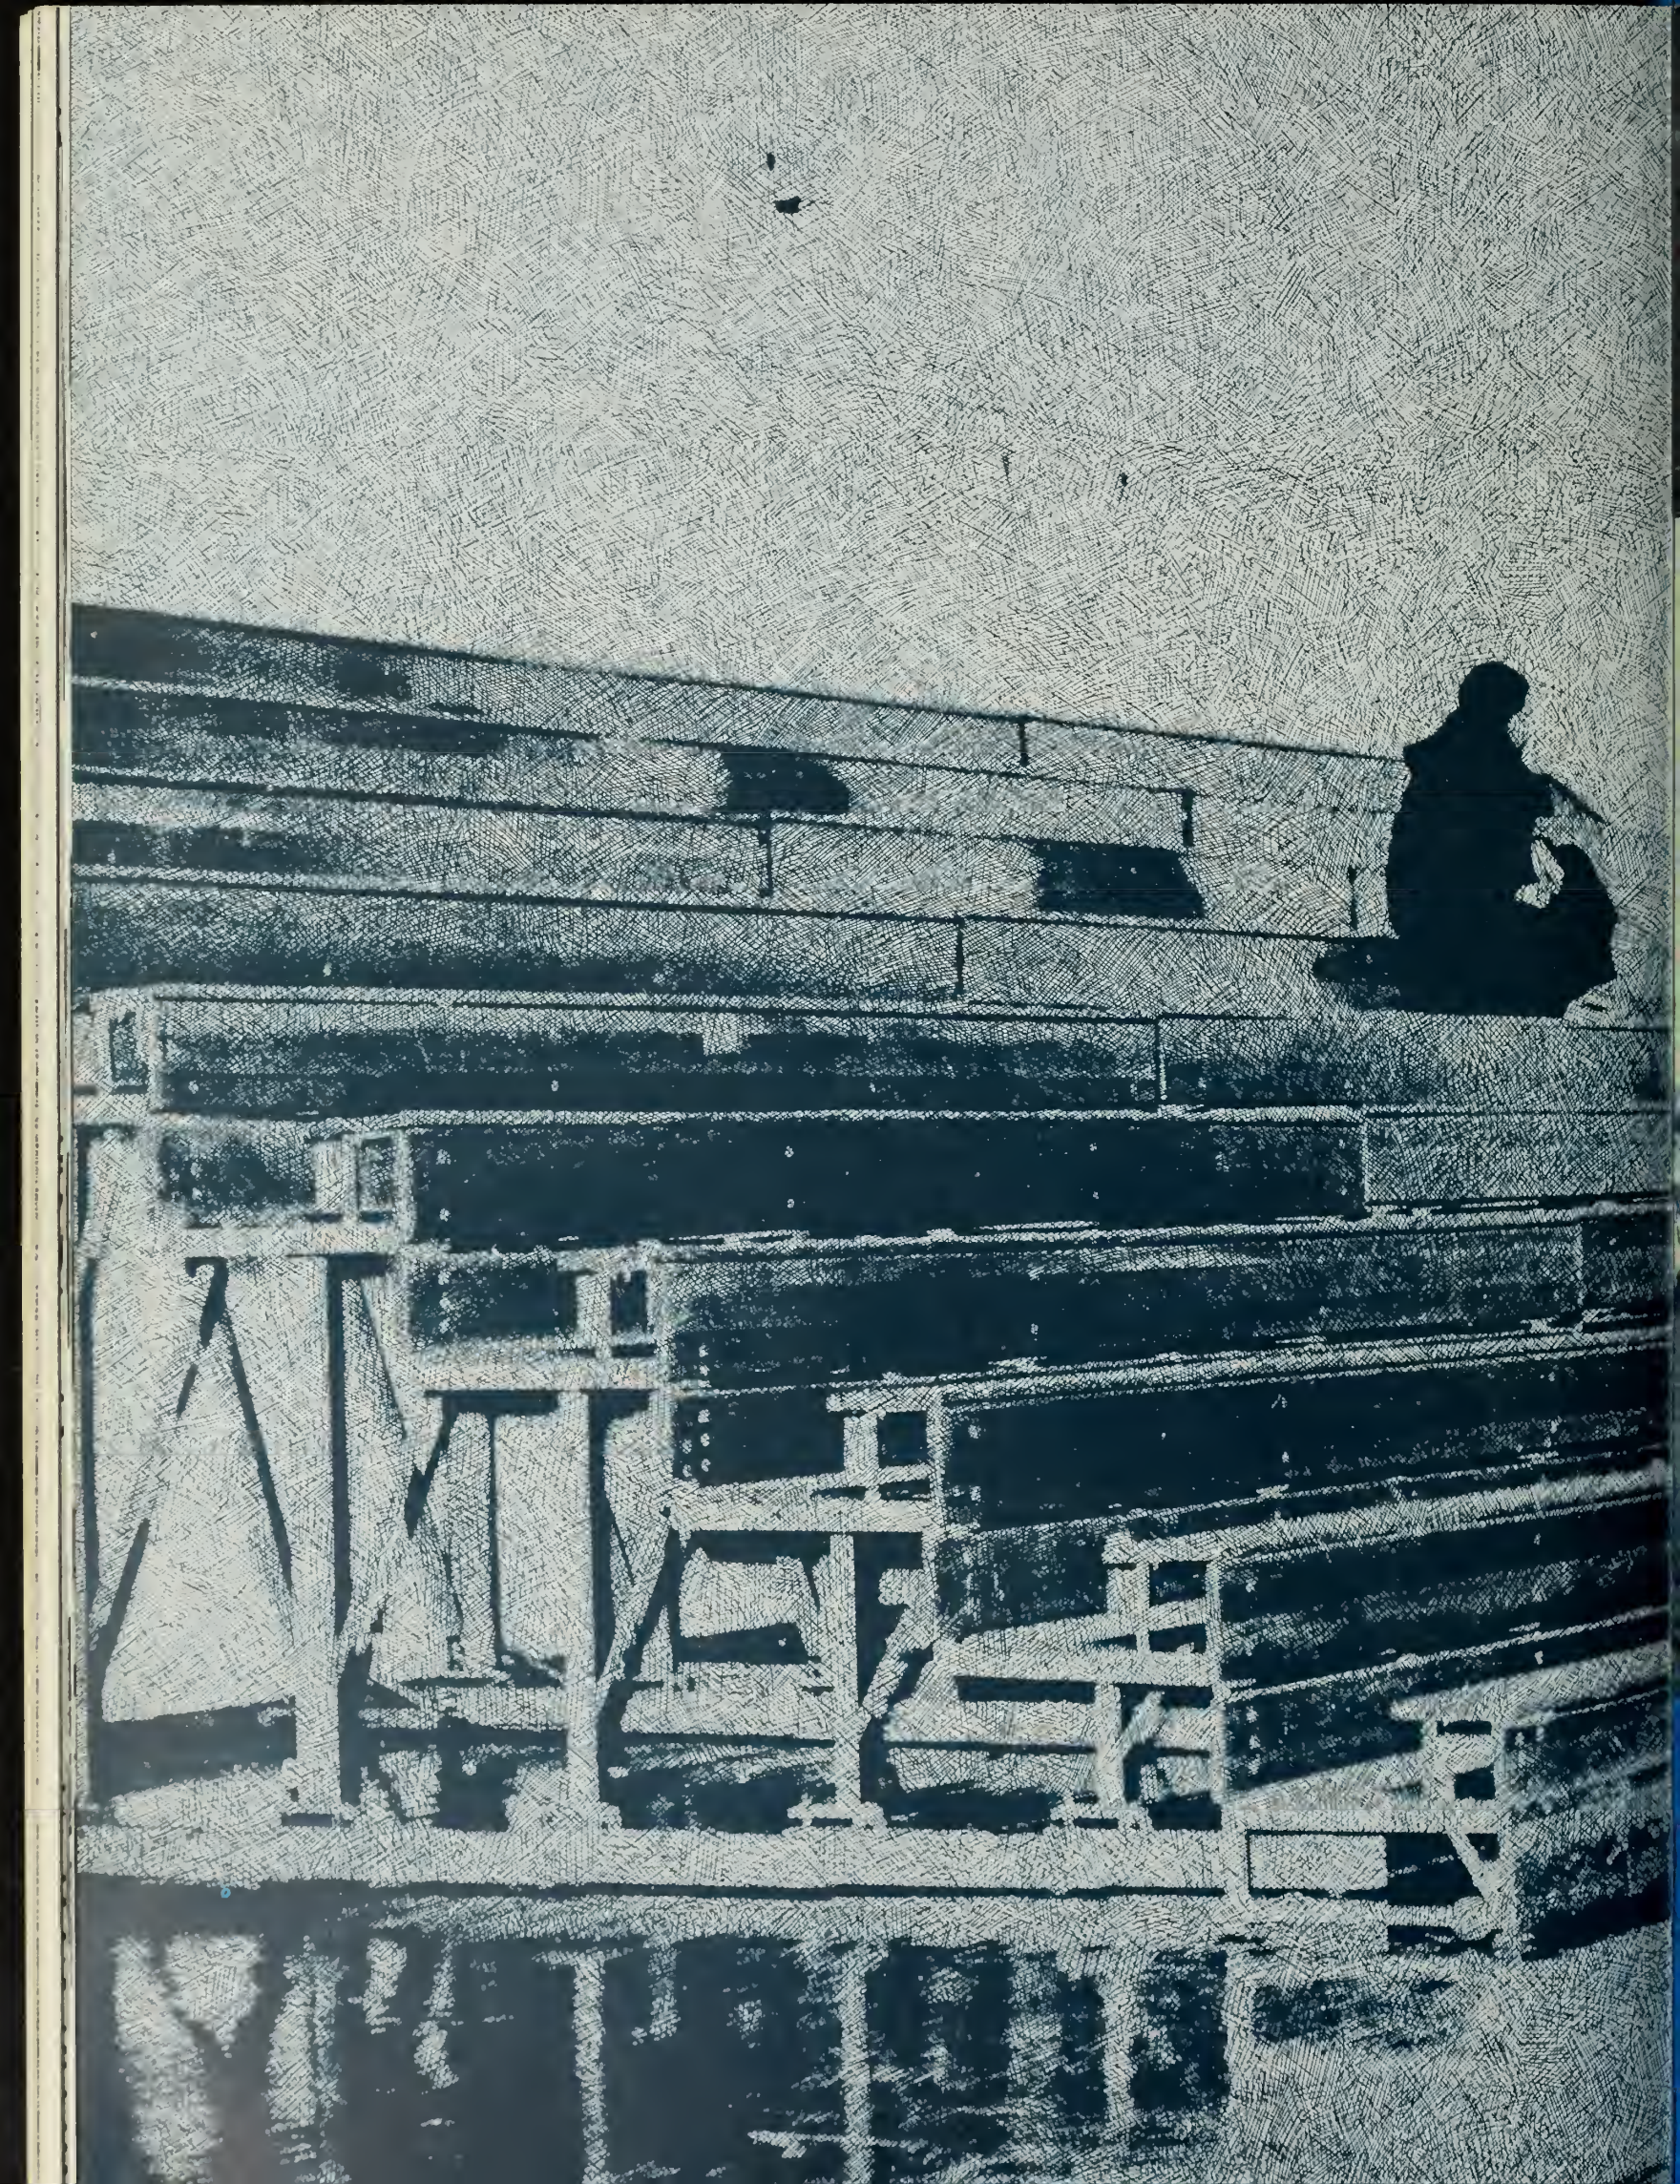

The completion of the Philomath concludes a year of many joys and frustrations. This page is dedicated to the many people who helped make it happen. There were the photographers, Mr. Kelly and Mr. Talbot of Westwood Studios, who supplied senior pictures, candids, and at times inspiration . . . Mr. Moore of T. O'Toole & Sons who lent us his expertise . . . Mr. Hatch, our advisor, who perservered through our deadlines and disagreements . . . and especially the editors and staff, without whose diligent work one of the most prized possessions of the Senior Class would not have been. Last, but not least, thank you seniors, for without you the book would have no meaning.

Sincerely,
ELAINE FORD
